

Scott M. Curran

Class of 1994

Inducted November 20, 2014

- 2008 Subsequently transitioned to a full-time in-house attorney position. After seven years and several title changes, became the General Counsel of the Clinton Foundation in early 2014.
- 2007 Graduating from the Clinton School then became a Program Fellow with the Clinton foundation, exploring opportunities for the Foundation to engage in pervasively poor rural regions of the U.S.
- 2005 Enrolled in the inaugural class of the University of Arkansas Clinton School Of Public Service to obtain a Masters in Public Service.
- 2001 Graduated from Chicago-Kent College of Law, graduated with a Juris Doctorate. Knowing that I wasn't likely to spend the entire professional life as a corporate law attorney, in the fifth year of practice I found the "detour" in the opportunity to go back to school at the age of 29 in Arkansas.
- 1998 Graduated from the University of Illinois, Champaign in Speech Communications.

Quote

"Your journey matters more than any destination. No matter who you are or where you are in your life's journey, you matter, you are important, and what your life will become is a greater mystery than anyone, including you, can predict right now. All you can do is prepare for it as best you are able and approach each day as positively as you can. It won't always be easy, but more often than not, it will be fun. Make your own luck, and enjoy the ride."
